Butterfly Release Information

Congratulations on your live butterfly purchase!

- Although they may be released in very light rain, they should not be released in a downpour. If kept on ice, they should last until the next day.

- If you cannot release your butterfly right away, please keep your butterfly in its box and envelope in a small cooler on ice (one small Ziploc bag with some ice cubes in it will do – keep box dry) until an hour before you plan to release it. This will ensure they will be warmed up and ready to fly.

- Do not place the butterflies in the sun or next to a heating unit. You do not want your butterflies to get too hot. Let the butterflies warm up naturally.

- When you release your butterfly, be careful not to squeeze the envelope tightly. The envelope is a trifold, and you can carefully open it outside when you are ready. Some butterflies will fly away, some will be happy to sit for a while, and some will fly to nearby flowers or trees.

   Enjoy your butterfly as you make a wish!

   May the wings of the butterfly kiss the sun.
   And find your shoulder to light on.
   To bring you luck, happiness and riches.
   Today, tomorrow and beyond.
